Taxpayers Urge Junior College, State Merger

The Newton Graphic, Thurs., Feb. 3, 1966

Newton should give serious onsideration now to phasing the Newton Junior College state support for the state's into the state community col-lege system within the next five years, the Newton Tax-Association declared in its bulletin this week

The bulletin noted that the college is rapidly becoming a major new charge on the taxpayers of the city. It pointed out that the 1966 college budget is up more than 20%, over last year with no substantial increase in stu-dents contemplated, and that the city's share in the cost will about double in the same year, from approximately $125,000 to $250,000.

It asserted that no fixed commitment should be made this year which would tend to place the city in the posi-tion of "freezing into heavy plant, heavy equipment or, more especially, into heavy tradition" at the college.

Now is the time to raise the merger question, said the Association, because educa-tional matters both in New-ton and at the state level are in considerable flux. It argues that Newton citizens are being taxed for a state sys-tem anyway, so why add an extra special cost for a local college too?

Moreover college education is not the business of Massa-chusetts municipalities whatever may be the practise else where since the state by law now prohibits any new mu-nicipal junior colleges. Also the state has recently taken over the Holyoke junior col-lege and is trying to raise enough money to finance the Volvos last an average of eleven years in Sweden where there are no speed limits on the highways, where there are over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads. How long do Volvos last in the States? #### Abraham Lincoln — Man of Compassion

Kindness is the only service that will stand the storm of life and not wash out. It will wear well, look well and be remembered long after the prism of politeness or the complexion of courtesy

- Abraham Lincoln

has faded away. Men who have been great in a true sense - in goodness of heart as well as in elevation of mind — have seldom been indifferent to the wrongs and unmoved by the suffering of the humble and defenseless, be he man or beast. Abraham Lincoln was no exception. During the years that he was growing to manhood he lived close to e pulsating heart of nature and amid the wild creatures that inhabit field and forest. He felt the mysterious kinship of all that lived, and his love and compassion embraced the whole range of dumb creation. Common to the backwoods and the frontier was the use of knife and gun, yet some of the finest anecdotes recall his respect for the rights and his pity for the plight of God's lesser creatures. Carl Sandburg records that, as a child, Lincoln once shot one of a flock of wild turkeys flying near his log cabin, with the result that he ever afterwards recoiled from pulling the trigger on game birds. It was the same author who drew a tender and a sat on the main l of corn bread and fried salt pork and joked with the gray squirrels that frisked and peeped at him from high forks of nearby walnut trees."

There was at times in his reaction to the suffering of animals, a singular characteristic. Not infrequently he would pass by some dumb creature in need of succor — perhaps distraught or deeply absorbed with some engrossing thought. But somewhere in his subconscious mind the incident would not pass unnoted. Ultimately, pity stirred within him, became insistent in its demands for action, and he never failed in the end to turn back — howsofar he had travelled — on an errand of compassion and mercy. He once declared, "I care not much for a man's religion whose dog and cat are not the better for it."

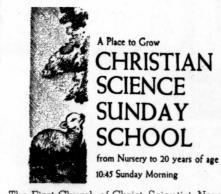

He was the Great Emancipator in the truest sense of the word, not only of human beings — both master and bondsman — from the debasement of involuntary servitude, but of the human spirit itself from its galling shackles of ignorance and injustice, intolerance and cruelty. Schopenhauer "I know of no more beautiful prayer than that which the Hindus of old used in closing their public spectacles; it was 'May all that have life be delivered from suffering.' "The whole vibration of Abraham Lincoln's spiritual being was attuned to such a sentiment.

The Newton Graphic, Thurs., Feb. 10, 1966 Political Highlights

Their position is a reasonable one since the can-didates of the two political parties should be nominated by the voters in open primaries. But why hold State Conventions?

The only thing this year's Democratic State Convention will accomplish will be to give the conclave winners top listing on the ballot and the right to have a notation under their names that they were endorsed by the convention.

For the most part the same battles waged at the convention will be fought all over again in the September primary. Some candidates may even bypass the convention entirely and run directly in the primary, as Endicott Peabody did in 1960.

Yet, the only Democratic candidate who was ever defeated at a convention and then won an election was former State Treasurer John F. Kennedy of Canton, who was in a sort of political class by himself.

These are some of the reasons Representative Kelly is seeking to scrap the pre-primary conventions. Sound though they may be, Kelly will not get far this year in his drive to abolish the State Conventions.

If Kelly's bill should be passed by the Legislature, which is improbable, it would face a certain veto when it reached Governor Volpe's desk.

and gained control of both branches of the Legislature. A bill reviving pre-primary State Conventions was passed in 1953 and was signed into law by the then Governor

Christian A. Herter. That is why Republican and Democratic State Conventions

are held every two years. No Republican candidate endorsed by a State Convention ever has been defeated in a primary. Rarely are the GOP convention winners even opposed in the open primary.

Electronics Institute In Award To Newton Resident

Dr. Seymour Stein, a resident of Newton, recently received an award from the Information Theory Group of the Institute of Electrical and neering at the Polytechnic Electronics Engineers Inc., for publishing the best information theory paper anywhere during the year 1964.

This achievement, in recognition of outstanding papers in the field of information theory which stimulates interest in and encourages contri-butions to the subject, was noted in the most recent issue of the IEEE's Transactions on Information Theory.

The award was for Dr.
Stein's paper "Unified Analysis of Certain Coherent and sis of Certain Coherent and Noncoherent Binary Communications Systems," published in the Transactions in 1964.

With Prof. W. R. Bennett of Columbia University and Prof. M. Schwartz of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Dr. Stein is the coauthor of "Communications Systems, and Techniques" Syctems and Techniques," a new book on advanced topics in radio communications the-ory scheduled to be publish-ed by the McGraw-Hill Book Co. in mid-1966.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dr. Stein is an associate director of the Applied Re-search Laboratory for Syl-vania Electronic Systems in Waltham.

Pupils

(Continued from Page 1) according to School Super-intendent Charles E. Brown. In voting to admit the Negro pupils, the School Committee mposed three conditions which are:

1—The total cost of participation must be provided by outside funds, with the city not being put to any expense.

2—No out-of-district pupils shall be assigned to any class room that would have, with their presence, 25 or more pupils.

3—The initial commitment would not include any obligation to take in additional children in future years. An attempt will be made to find "second homes" in Newton for the Negro pupils where they may go to eat their lunches each day and where they could be taken if they suddenly become ill.

Families residing in the vicinity of the schools attended by the Negro children will be invited to volunteer to provide the "second homes."

Superintendent Brown observed that this would give the Negro youngsters a feeling that they belonged and were wanted.

The vote to admit the 50 60 Negro pupils came after prolonged discussion in which various members of an overflow gathering in the committee room took part.

At the outset, Committee Francis P. Frazier, serving as acting chairman in the absence of Hugh M. Tomb, called for a vote on waiving from the non-members. The rules were waived with the provision that each person confine his remarks to one minute.

Some of the evening's visitors expressed concern as to the wisdom of the school system's taking on extra responsibilities. Su-perintendent Brown, superintendent of schools and chairman of METCO's planning committee, attempted to allay these

Said the superintendent, "We are talking about the use of one or two seats in each of a number of class-rooms." He added that the availability of the required classroom space in those schools had been explored been explored and found suitable for the

He expressed the belief that the plan not only would be helpful to the Negro children brought here, but also would be of educational value to the local youngsters

At one point in the discussion of points brought out by visitors, Dr. Brown gave ssurance that children with extreme physical or psychological problems would not be included in the plan. "We be included in the plan. We will take representative youngsters," he went on, "and by no means the more brilliant ones who might be called the cream of the crop."

Committeeman Harold J.

Berman stressed that the busing of Negro children here would not constitute a solution of Boston's segre solution of Boston's segre-gation problem. "I hope it will benefit the children who come here, but we should not assume that we should not assume that we anound not assume that we are striking a blow for racial equality. This is an opportunity to demonstrate our concern as a member of the metropolitan com-munity."

Political Highlights

If there were even a remote possibility that Volpe would not stand for another term, Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson would not be trying to decide whether he will run for Attorney General or Lieutenant Governor. Instead, he'd be mapping a gubernatorial

Right now Volpe appears to have an excellent chance of winning reelection to a full four-year term.

If an election were held tomorrow, Volpe probably would be returned to office by a decisive margin over any of the Democratic candidates seeking the right to tch vote-getting strength with him in November.

Some sound political analysts believe, however, that with the Boston Symphony on Volpe will impair his own reelection prospects if he wins his long fight for the enactment of a limited per cent sales tax.

Volpe obviously disagrees with that appraisal. At least he's still making an all-out drive for the adoption of his sales tax bill and will be satisfied to take his chances on getting reelected if he succeeds in placing the sales tax on the statute books.

But there's a very real possibility that the political experts are correct in their opinions and that Volpe's political judgment doesn't match his political courage.

low income families don't ask themselves such ques-tions. The answer is ob-vious, for the meal is almost always basically the same. Often it's whatever is available at the lowest prices in the market.

Each morning the Peruvian tousewife walks to the market to do the day's shopping. Hav-ing no refrigeration prevents buying food for the whole week or even for the next day.

Most of the vendors have small stands built of mat and cane poles in which they sell their produce. Others, usually the Indian women, spread their wares upon a blanket on the ground. One must be care-ful not to stumble over neat stacks of oranges, apples and tomatoes, or even occasional sleeping children and dogs. The trays in the stalls of this crowded open-air market dis-play what is on the ground plus eggs, onions, lettuce, squash, corn, rice, bananas, potatoes, carrots, peas, string beans, garlic, and many other common fruits and vegetables.

And, of course, there is "aji" (pronounced "ah-he"), the innocent-looking spice that looks like a small red pepper, yet will ravage the throat and bring tears to the eyes of the unaccus-tomed foreigner. Passing through the less appetizing meat section, I choose what-ever looks safest each day among the fish, chicken, beef, goat or lamb hanging on display for all, including the flies, to examine. Often I prefer no meat at all.

Many wives and mothers in low income families these vary their meals slightly day day, but most provide little or no variation. I once ate with a family for six con secutive days, and the only variation was fish ONE day. The other meals were identical, and even the fish dinner included most of what the others had!

The meal begins with soup usually made from wheat or starchy noodles. This contains a touch of "aji," which kills the blandness. On special occasions or families with more money, a salad is also served. This is basically uncooked fish smothered with The lining of the lips, mouth, and throat seem most to glow after eating this hot "cebiche" salad.

Next comes the main dish. This is almost always one third boiled potatoes an one third cooked rice. both served with "aji" sauce. The meat is usually cooked goat or cuy (guinea pig). After the meal tea or coffee is served, and follow-ing all that "aji" it is most welcome!

For special fiestas and birthday dinners, the family pig may be butchered, or more frequently, a chicken or a fey cuyes get the axe. These latter animals (as well as the chickens) run at will through the house and are eaten on special occasions. We gringos tend to react unfavorably the first time it is served to us but after the initial shock wears off, we realize that it is delicious meat (what there the "aji" drowns out — or burns out — much of the work" of the low income Peris of it), although, again, flavor.

You may wonder how the women do the cooking. In these poor houses kerosene Peruvian mother needs to turn out a complete meal. Each family normally owns one or two single-burner pressure stoves or a double-burner-unit. These are These are

While I am on the subject of housework, do you wonder how she does the laun-dry? I wondered because a neighbor woman washes my clothes. She uses the stand-tub method and a box of sudsy detergent. Peruvians look for lots of suds, too. Some of my other neighbors carry their laundry to a nearby stream and scrub and beat it on the rocks, leaving it to dry in the reeds or on the rocks My clothes always come back clean, whether washed in the tub or the stream, but I am afraid that each washing shortens their life expectancy considerably. Where there is no electricity, pressing is done by a large cast iron iron. ### Boards Favors 2 Proposals Under '65 Education Act two proposals under the pro-visions of Title III, Elementary and Secondary Educa tion Act of 1965 was recom mended Monday night by unanimous votes of the School Committee.

One of the proposals is for the development of a program in the Arts.

The other involves establishment of a Work Adjust-ment Center Training Profor Mentally Retarded

Support of both proposals was urged by Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools.

Aim of the Arts program, he explained, was establish-ment of a model relationship between the Newton school system and five outstanding artistic organizations, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Theater Company of Boston, Opera Company of Boston, Inc., and the Robert Cohan Dance Company.

The proposal, Dr. Brown explained, attempts to overcome existing inadequacies by pro-viding planned involvement in the arts.

Benefits to the students, he went on, would be as follows: Introduce and educate him to the art forms, increase his sensitivity to the arts, enliven the study of other subjects such as history and English, suggest the relevance of the arts to all aspects of life and learning, stimulate interest lifelong perhaps - as a spec or participant in the

Also, there would be benefts for the teacher, namely, increase his own interest in arts enable him better to communicate the relationship of the arts to his subject by providing channels for correla-tion and enrichment, stimu-late his curriculum planning, improve interdisciplinary planning.

Teenagers Will Read Bible On Air Next Week

Five Newton teenagers will heard next Monday through Friday, Febuary 21-25 on radio station WCRB. They will be reading in the series "Bible Readings for School and Home" which is broadcast daily after the 7:30 morning news.

The Newton group are all pupils in the Sunday School at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton. "Bible Readings for School and Home" is an independent, interfaith group which start-ed about 15 years ago for the purpose of suggesting appro-priate selections for Bible readings in the schools and copies of their suggested selections were widely distri-buted and used in the public schools in Massachusetts.

After the Supreme Court decision barring religious observances in the schools, the group decided to undertake a radio program. WCRB was looking for a Bible reading program, and the current se-ries came into being, and has been broadcast continuously December 1963. The ra dio station contributes time

> Essentially, the plan calls for special audio and visual materials, lecture demonstrations, discussions and per the professionals at each of the Newton public schools. The program will require the services of one person full time as director and two perons half-time as staff assistants.

> It is the intention to form a steering committee, com-prising the artistic directors cooperating profession al groups plus curriculum and administrative reresentatives of the Newton schools.

It is intended that the pe riod of, the grant shall be from July 1, 1966 to June 30, 1967. If a grant is obtained, it is intended to use the period from the date of the grant until Sept. 1, 1966 for eveloping specific plans demic year Toward this end, the follow ing items have been included in the school budget:

For administration, $32,500 for operating, $509,698; for transportation, $35,000. The total: $577,198.

The mentally retarded youth program proposal was sub-mitted by the Brookline pub-lic schools in cooperation with the public schools of Newton and Lexington and the Jew ish Vocational Services, Inc. of Boston.

It involves a work adjust ment training center for men-tally retarded youth in the three communities on the pattern of the Sheltered Work shop program of the Jewish Vocational Services.

It is pointed out that in the communities there is need for a program that will provide opportunities for retarded youth to learn employable skills. It is expected that the program would be in opera-tion for two years, with five students from Newton involv provided an operational grant

The program would be con ducted in the existing Shel tered Workshop of the Jewish Vocational Service, 78 Chauncy St., Boston.

Hence the propos al to pay him what he was worth for three days' service, while paying the full-time man at a lower rate.

Clergy (Continued from Page 1)

Hospital Sunday was dis-continued in the 1920's, when rapid growth in the scope and dimension of hos-pital service no longer made church-centered financing feasible.

However, a close relation-ship between the hospital and churches and synagogues has continued over the years. An active Chaplains program brings representatives of the three major faiths into the hospital for bedside visitations. Presently, area clergymen and physicians are conducting a series of monthly seminars at the hospital, focusing upon areas of mutual concern.

During January, Dr. Jack Parker of Wellesley de-scribed to clergymen the surgical process and the reactions of a surgical patient.
During the past week, Dr.
R. Emerson Sylvester of Auburndale discussed the heart patient and family medicine. During March, Dr. Gerald C. Garcelon of West Newton will discuss cancer and its impact upon patients and families.

In addition, various church groups conduct regular activities in behalf of the hospital. Two who provide items needed by the Central Supply Department are the Newton Highlands Congregational Church and Trinity Church of Newton Centre.

Sewing various items for use in the hospital are groups at Second Church Congregational in Newton and First Unitarian in Newton.

During March, five Newton Centre churches will set aside a day to sew and pre-pare materials for the hospital. Participating churches will include: First Baptist, First Church Congregational, Trinity Church Episcopal, Lutheran Church of Newton, and Newton Centre Methodist

During February, three vaban churches observed ri-Church Day, continuing Tri-Church Day, continuing a sewing and helping program that goes back more than 35 years. Participating in the annual Tri-Church Day program were women of Church of Good Shepherd (Episcopal), St. Philip Neri Roman Catholic Church, and the Union Church in Waban

Heart Sunday Appeal

Next Sunday is Heart Sunday in Newton and throughout the Commonwealth.

It is a day on which many thousands of dedicated men and women will visit their neighbors to accept contributions to the 1966 Heart Fund.

A traditional Heart Fund slogan has been "the more you give, the more will live." The record indicates it is more than a slogan; it is a provable fact. Because we in Newton have given, and given generously, to our Heart Fund in other years, more people are living.

As far back as the development of the Pacemaker, that wonderful device which restarts stilled hearts and brings patients literally back from death, as far back as the infancy of heart surgery. Heart Funds have been at work to help make possible these and other lifesaving techniques and implements.

Heart Funds helped develop sophisticated drug therapies for high blood pressure, a major American Health menace, and advanced diagnostic and treatment techniques for rheumatic fever, the precursor of rheumatic heart disease.

In scores of other, less dramatic ways, Heart, Funds are constantly at work in local hospitals and laboratories. Within the past year, to select examples at random, computers have been employed to assess more quickly and accurately than ever before the information gathered on electrocardiograms. An experimental approach to the relief of coronary artery disease through surgical diversion of blood to starved areas of heart muscle has been found. A device permitting visualization and photography inside the living heart has been developed.

And this is only one front on which the Heart Fund is active. Its programs of education alert the medical profession and the public to new knowledge about the cardiovascular system; its community service programs reach into the home town with Nevertheless, the problem Massachusetts people face with their hearts is still a vast and a very dangerous one. Heart and circulatory diseases still account for more deaths in our state than all other causes combined, and, as well, untold suffering and loss of productivity.

Cardiovascular disease has been correctly termed "the modern American epidemic", and it should be fought with the zeal and immediacy with which we would battle any other epidemic.

We are fortunate in Massachusetts in having some of the world's finest medical and scientific talent and facilities, and in having the Heart Fund as the private citizen's channel to them.

Let us, this Heart Sunday, invest substantially in our health, that of our children and of genera-tions yet to come. Let us support our Heart Fund as generously as possible.

Two Edison Company petitions given a public hearing at Monday night's aldermanic meeting were tabled in order to obtain further information from the company after two couples had voiced objection to the Edison proposals.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner M. Morse of 79 Dedham St., Newton Highlands, expressed opposition to the proposed digging of a trench in Dedham St. where their double driveway connects with the street. They suggested that, instead of making a trench and then patching it over, the company consider tunneling under that part of the street in front of their driveway.

The persons queried for the most part were delegates in 1964, plan to be delegates again this year and know the sentiment within the committees they head.

Peabody is picking up support from commit-tees and delegations which are controlled or influenced by persons he appointed to judgeships and other high positions and who feel a sense of loyalty or obligation to him.

But he is finding it much more difficult to line up delegate support than he did two years ago when he had the patronage of the Governor's office at his disposal and could trade jobs and favors for convention

A very sizeable number of delegates who supported Peabody for renomination in 1964 are planning to back Mayor Collins for the U. S. Senate

Lucy Jackson Chapter DAR school seniors for outstanding dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. The chapter gives contributions

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, kitchen with its huge fire-Daughters of the American Revolution, in observance of the 75th anniversary of the parent organization, this week highlighted the illustrious history of the chapter since its

of the American Revolution, was organized in 1896 by a group of women, including Mrs. Frederick J. resenden, Miss Fanny B.
Allen, and Mrs. Arthur
Friend. Miss Fanny B. Allen was the first Regent from 1896-1905.

The chapter was named for Lucy Jackson, born on January 22, 1753, in Newton, the eldest daughter of Timothy and Sarah Jackson. Her father was a lieutenant in the French and Indian War. She was a direct descendant of Edward Jackson, who came to America about 1643. Lucy's only brother, Timothy, was one of the 44 Jackson de-scendants in Newton who were Revolutionary War

While he was at war, Lucy did his work on the farm with the help of her younger sis-ter. This house was on the corner of Washington and Jackson Road in Newton. The house now on the site is the Jackson Homestead.

In 1778 Lucy married Moses Souther and moved to a small farm in Marlboro, where her husband died, leaving her with four small children. A woman of great courage and determination, she did the farm work alone and brought up her children to be useful citizens. She died October 14, 1831.

In 1917 the Lucy Jackson Chapter bought the beautiful two and a half story Colonial Mansion on the corner of Concord and Washington streets in Newton Lowe Falls as their permanent Chapter House, near the ori-ginal "wading-place" where the Charles River is now crossed by the bridge.

The Chanter House has had rich background, beginning in 1761 when John Parker bequeathed it to his son, Ezra. Records show that in 1650 the first John Parker moved from Hingham to Newton (or Cambridge Village as it was then called) and lived next to the Hammond Farm. When Ezra Parker married Sarah Pratt, thought that John Parker built the house for him. In all likelihood the house was only a two-story one with the front door facing the river. Ezra and Sarah must have looked out of the iron works, and the sawmill across the town way.

In 1774 it was bought by an aristocrat, Aster Stoddard of Boton, who sold it to his son-Collins, incidentally, ap- While Peabody made some Boton, who sold it to his sonpears to have potent support new friends during his term in-law, William Hoogs, in 1781.

"George, let's do it different this year. We've got this huge inventory to take and I'm too tired. Let's give an additional 10 or 15% off our prices. That way we'll sell more, make more people happy and we'll have less stock to inventory. George! Don't look like that! It's only money." Only money, says I as I figure fast. Scorby's prices always reflect an average savings of 22% — then I give an additional 10·15% and then—ouch. "George", says Ethel, "face it, how far and how often can you bend and come up with an accurate count? Play it cool. Write an ad something like this: Come save at Scorby's where your money counts to help Scorby's shorten their inventory count. Too many counts? That's what I mean. So do it!" O.K. It's a deal. ### Social Security Information

Q. My father is 80 years old. He was turned down for social security benefits be-cause he had not worked long enough to qualify. Will the new law help him?

A. It may. Since he is over 76, he now needs only three quarters of coverage to quali-fy, instead of six.

Q. I applied for retirement benefits the year before last when I reached 65. I was told I didn't have enough work credits. Can I qualify now?

A. No. Since you reached retirement age in 1963, you needed credit for three years of work to be insured. Under the new law, you still need the same amount. The num-ber of work credits needed was reduced only for those work-ers who reached retirement age prior to 1957.

Q. I read that the amoun of earnings a person could have and still get all of his social security benefits has been raised from $1200 to $1500. Is this so?

'A. Yes. However, it is not effective until 1966. You can earn up to $1200 in 1965 and get all benefits for the

Q. I understand that the new law enables a person to get monthly benefits even though he has never worked under social security. How do I get my benefits started?

A. You can't get monthly benefits unless you have worked under social security or qualify as a dependent on the earnings record of another. However, you can get hospital benefits at 65, if you will be 65 before 1968, even if you have never worked under social security.

Q. I was turned down last year for disability benefits. I was disabled in 1963. Does the new law change the work requirements?

A. No. Except for those who become blind before they are 31, there is no change in the work requirements.

Q. My claim was disallowed because my disability was not severe enough to keep me from doing my work. Does the new law help me?

A. No. You can get disability benefits only if you are unable to work because of your disability.

Aldermen In Tribute To Late Captain

Approval of two resolutions was voted in the fading minutes of Monday night's meeting of the Aldermen.

One, presented by Paul J. Burke, Ward 3 Alderman, was an expression of deep regret at the death of Police Capt. James W. Corcoran to be sent to his widow. The captain died Monday night at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, to which he had been taken the night before following a heart at-tack. A minute of silent tribute was observed by the mem-

The other resolution was offered by Alderman Warren A. Sutherland. It called on the members to support Senate Bill 307 which, according to a letter to the Board from Mayor Basbas, pertains to control of outdoor advertising and is, in effect, home rule.

The Mayor's letter, in part,

"I would strongly urge that the Board adopt a resolution this evening supporting primarily Senate Bill 307, which in effect allows only those billboards that are approved by the City Council to be approved by the Outdoor Adventished Principles 1 tising Division. I would fur-ther strongly urge that as many members of the Board of Aldermen as possible ap-pear at this hearing to be held before the Committee on Mer before the Committee on Mercantile Affairs in Room 423 at the State House on Thursday morning, at 10:30 a.m.

"I would further request that adequate publicity be given these hearings in order that as many people as possible might appear and show their support of any legislation such as this which grants expansion of home rule, esexpansion of home rule, especially in the field of outdoor advertising and especially in the light of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson's national program on beautification and highway beautification."
